

WELCOME TO HUBBARD VALLEY PARK...

Fishing, sled riding, hiking, picnicking, and observing wildlife are a few activities available at the park.

Children of all ages enjoy the playset at the park.

The Hubbard Valley has made a remarkable transition from Indian villages to the settlement of the Guilford Township frontier. Hubbard Creek was first tamed by grist mills, tanneries, and saw mills during the establishment of Seville.

Today, the area remains a scenic center of farming and commerce.

In 1978, the 18-acre lake was built as a flood-control structure for the surrounding communities, creating Hubbard Valley Park.

When the Hubbard Valley Dam was built, additional land was purchased to permit the development of a permanent reservoir, adding to its diverse landscape of forest, meadow, water, and recreation.

A 1.25-mile nature trail leads park visitors around the lake and through a wooded area. As you walk the trail, wildlife viewing opportunities abound. A paved, all-purpose trail leads to both shelters, around the back of the sledding hill, to the rest rooms, to the bridge that leads to the hiking trail, and to the fishing area. Two reservable picnic shelters provide group picnicking opportunities, and numerous individual tables and grills provide opportunities for individual family picnics. A playground and a sledding hill add to your family's enjoyment. Benches located along the paths provide spots for relaxation.
